SUBJECT: [REDACTED] Miscellany on Estimating Transportation Capacities

1. Attached is a brochure prepared by [REDACTED] which is made up of all the documents used by [REDACTED] in connection with assessing transportation capacities. This is not an official [REDACTED] publication but is, as the title states, a miscellaneous collection of papers in form convenient for reference. 25X1C8c 25X1X7 25X1X7

2. Copies have been forwarded to G-2, Washington, with a request that if they have a system for assessing capacities such document be returned. Likewise, if we have a system, [REDACTED] would like to know how it operates. Interest is great at this time for, tentatively, [REDACTED] is heading for [REDACTED] next month and would like to familiarize himself with our techniques prior to departure. 25X1X7 25X1X7

3. Incidentally, while on transportation problems, [REDACTED] told me of a report being prepared, and which will be forwarded, on the Trans-Siberian Railroad. [REDACTED] who is being interrogated here. While his statements on traffic (frequency of trains and number of cars) are taken with several grains of salt, [REDACTED] is tending to the belief that the capacity of the railroad is perhaps as much as 50% above their previous estimates. [REDACTED] states that there are double track and electric signals along the entire route as well as 300 mile hauls for the locomotives are not doubted by [REDACTED]. The finished report on the interrogation should be available for transmittal within the next week. 25X1C8c 25X1X6 25X1X7 25X1X6
